TO SIGN OR NOT TO SIGN FARM RELIEF BILL

PRES. COOLIDGE HAS THE McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

MEASURE IS FRAUGHT WITH ENOUGH POLITICAL DYNAMITE TO DISTURB ALL POLITICS

WILL HAVE BEARING ON THE 1928 PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE LINE-UP

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washingtno, Feb. 19.—When he walked into his office this morning, President Coolidge found on top of his desk the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill—a measure which politicians here say is fraught with enough political dynamite to disturb the whole 1928 presidential lineup.

To sign or not to sign is the question. The answer may determine the president's own future position in the republican party, and influence the opposing candidates now being talked of by the congressional farm blocs.

Nine out of ten observers in congress believe the president will veto the measure and will send it back to congress Monday with a message giving his reasons therefor.

A veto would prevent the measure from becoming a law. It received a majority of eight in the senate and 36 in the house, and cannot possibly receive the two-thirds majority necessary for passage over a veto.

Farm bloc leaders assert that should the president veto the bill, they will oppose Mr. Coolidge as a presidential candidate next year. Eight or ten republican senators will take the stump against him, the bloc members assert.

The bill has been enthusiastically endorsed by former Gov. Frank C. Lowden of Illinois and Vice President Charles G. Dawes, both of whom are being mentioned as presidential prospects.

Eastern leaders of the party, who opposed the bill, are keeping silent, firm in the belief that the president will veto the measure. But if he should sign, it is hardly to be expected that they will join any Coolidge flag waving.

So, in the opinion of most impartial observers, the president finds himself between the midwest farm bloc of the party on one hand and the eastern opposition on the other and he is certain to displease one.

Whatever the merits of the question, it is conceded it foreshadows more political consequences than any issue upon which the president has been asked to act since his election.

Topeka, Kansas, Feb. 19. — Although veto of the McNary-Haugen bill is freely predicted by congressmen, the Kansas house of representatives today adopted a resolution calling on President Coolidge to affix his signature to the farm measure.

The vote was 73 to 17.

The resolution was introduced by Rep. O. A. Edwards of Sherman and followed a bitter debate.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ATTACKS U. S. DIST. ATTY.

CHARGES LAFAYETTE FRENCH, JR., WITH FLAGRANT IRREGULARITIES

LEAGUE ASKS SENATE JUDICIARY SUB-COMMITTEE TO CONTEST RENOMINATION

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—(UP)—United States District Attorney Lafayette French, Jr., of St. Paul, was charged by the Minnesota Anti-Saloon League today with "flagrant irregularities" in office.

The league asked a senate judiciary sub-committee to refuse to affirm President Coolidge's renomination of French.

Charges made were:

That French freed numerous prisoners convicted on liquor charges by resorting to legal technicalities.

That he ill treated attorneys not affiliated with "the whiskey syndicate."

That he conspired to disbar one attorney.

That he connived with attorneys for bootleggers.

That he contradicted himself in evidence he gave before separate courts.

Misconduct also is charged by the league against William Anderson, assistant U. S. district attorney.

Protests against reappointment of French probably will be heard by a judiciary subcommittee of the United States senate next week.

Washington, Feb. 19. — Senator Means, republican, Colorado, chairman of a judiciary sub-committee appointed to investigate charges against Lafayette French, Jr., renominated as United States attorney for Minnesota, said today he had set no date for the hearing as he had been unable to receive any definite information regarding appearance of witnesses.

Several telegrams to interested parties in Minnesota had brought no response, he said. He received a telegram today from G. W. Froelich of Minneapolis declaring that French was "absolutely unfit" for the office, but Froelich declined to come here unless subpoenaed.

READJUSTMENTS IN NEWSPAPER FIELD RECORDED

ELIMINATIONS, CONSOLIDATIONS AND SOMETHING LIKE REVOLUTION

THE METHODS OF MANAGEMENT CHANGE LARGELY WITH GROWTH OF YEARS

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 19.—(UP)—The past 15 years has seen many readjustments in the newspaper field, including eliminations, consolidations and something like a revolution in methods of management, F. W. Beckman, managing editor of The Farmers' Wife, St. Paul, declared before the annual convention of the Iowa Press Association today.

Beckman until recently was head of the journalism department at Iowa State College, Ames. Five definite facts about the country paper have come to stand out very clearly, he said. These are:

1. There is a distinct field for the purely local country newspaper and a service for it to render which no other can give. The interest of the people in the happenings of their own community is as great as it ever was. Here and there dailies have undertaken to deal intimately with what they often dub "small town stuff," but they do not always do it sympathetically and cannot do it thoroughly. It is the exclusive job of the country newspaper.

2. The old-time village newspaper published in towns of 200 to 500 had nearly gone out of existence, while in scores of larger towns the second and even third newspapers which were almost the rule 15 and 20 years ago have disappeared and we find only one. The advertising patronage, the job printing, the community spirit and general business patronage that are likely to be found only in the larger country towns are assential factors in country newspaper making. The whole trend of consolidations seems to establish most larger towns as newspaper towns.

3. The local newspaper must print more community wide news and better written news than ever before. The country newspaper of today needs far more equipment than the country editor of 20 years ago ever dreamed about. The well-equipped, well-edited, news-filled country newspaper is succeeding; the other kind is failing.

4. The open country provides two-thirds of a country newspaper's circulation; it deserves proportionate attention in a news and a business way.

5. Country newspapers' success today demands a higher type of business supervision and community interest that the old paper did not dream of giving. The country newspaper is a very necessary factor in the maintenance of the kind of rural life we must have for the best national life. It should have some part in helping rural people to hold fast to what is good in their lives and traditions.

WOMEN JURORS IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington, Feb. 19.—(UP)—The senate has approved women jurors in the District of Columbia.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR NEW WAGE SCALE ARE DEADLOCKED

OPINION OF DELEGATES TO THE JOINT COAL CONFERENCE

IN SESSION NOW A WEEK AT MIAMI, WITHOUT HARMONY

By ROBERT J. FAHERTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19.—Negotiations looking toward a new wage scale for the central competitive coal field are almost hopelessly deadlocked, in the opinion of delegates to the joint coal conference which has been in session here all week.

As the sub-committee to which opposing proposals were submitted, adjourned yesterday afternoon for a two-day rest, it was announced that nothing in the way of harmony had been approached.

Representatives of the operators still refuse to continue with wage levels which pertained under the 1926 Jacksonville agreement whereas the miners' spokesmen insist that wages cannot be reduced. The operators and miners are also split on the question of a commission to regulate wage scales—the operators favoring such a commission and the miners disapproving.

BELIEVE THAT LIBERALS WILL CEASE FIGHTING

WILL STOP WARFARE AGAINST DIAZ REGIME RECOGNIZED BY THE U. S.

NICARAGUAN REBELS LATELY HAVE DEVELOPED UNEXPECTED MILITARY STRENGTH

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 19.—(UP) — With 1,600 additional U. S. marines en route to Nicaragua or ordered to go there, the administration was hopeful today that the liberal revolutionists soon would realize the futility of fighting the Diaz regime recognized by the United States.

President Coolidge and officials here are unable, it is said, to verify reports of alleged Mexican arms shipments to the rebels, but whatever the explanation, the Nicaraguan rebels have developed unexpected military strength, which the president considers menacing to American interests.

Victory of the rebels in the impending battle of Matagalpa would create a dangerous situation which might easily get out of hand unless Admiral Latimer, commander of American forces of occupation, had plenty of marines to draw upon, according to officials here.

The new move toward alleged United States intervention in a domestic Nicaraguan dispute increased criticism of the administration in congressional circles which have demanded wihtdrawal of American forces from that country. But Sen. Borah and others who led the recent senate fight against the Coolidge Caribbean policy were uncertain today whether to raise the issue again in the rush of the closing days of the session.

Regardless of the sporadic opposition aroused, it was clear today that President Coolidge intends to use as many marines and warships as Secretary Kellogg considers necessary to maintain American interests in Nicaragua. The president has given Admiral Latimer full authority if necessary to declare Matagalpa and other important western towns "neutral zones" under American occupation.

Practically the entire eastern coast of Nicaragua — formerly the liberal rebel stronghold—will continue to be held by U. S. marines in seven neutral zones until the civil war ends, it is said.

Judge Graham personally arranged the details of the sentence.

SEARCH ON FOR THE AMERICAN FREIGHTER ELKTON

BELIEF GROWS THAT CRAFT HAS FOUNDERED IN THE GALE

LIBERATOR FOUND ONLY EXPANSE OF OILY WATER WHERE CRAFT RADIOED

Manila, P. I., Feb. 19.—(UP) — Although search continued today for the American freighter Elkton, caught in a mid-Pacific storm, shipping officials today expressed belief that the craft had foundered.

Officers aboard the steamer Liberator, which answered the distress signal of the Elkton, found nothing but an expanse of oily water at the spot where the disabled craft had given her position.

The Elkton carried a crew of 37 men and had a $1,000,000 cargo of sugar consigned to Honolulu and New York.

There was a feeling in insurance circles, however, that the Elkton may have put in for shelter and because of crippled wireless could not make its safety known.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGER DIES OF WOUNDS

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Vizerillo Guardagni, alleged bootlegger and police character, died today from bullet wounds inflicted when he was ambushed by several men armed with shotguns.

PROCLAIM A GENERAL STRIKE AT SHANGHAI

MARTIAL LAW PREVAILS TODAY THROUGHOUT CHINESE CITY

VIRTUALLY EVERY PHASE OF INDUSTRY IN PORT IS STAGNATED

Shanghai today was confronted with the most serious situation since the "open door" admitted foreigners to the Orient.

Chinese labor struck within the city.

Thousands of undisciplined and defeated troops were falling back toward Shanghai from the province of Chekiang where the Cantonese nationalists apparently were supreme.

Martial law prevailed in the Chinese area of Shanghai.

British troops occupied rural positions around the city.

No disorder had resulted from the strike, and it was believed that foreign troops and warships arrived or en route to Shanghai could guarantee the safety of foreign lives in the event of mob violence.

Tokio authorized the landing of 300 marines at Shanghai.

A force of 300 American marines was here and more were due next week aboard the U. S. S. Chaumont.

By H. FRANCIS MISSELWITZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, Feb. 19—(11:40 P. M.)—Police and Chinese strikers clashed today in various outlying suburbs.

Reports from the south indicated that the Cantonese had decisively defeated the troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang and the foreign colonies here prepared to defend themselves if need be against mob violence or the depredations of undisciplined soldiers who were falling back on this rich city.

Shanghai, Feb. 19.—British skirmishers today occupied positions in the rural outskirts of the city and Chinese labor proclaimed a general strike as a protest against the landing here of British troops and in celebration of the triumph of the Cantonese nationalists in Chekiang.

Martial law prevailed today throughout the Chinese city. So far the general strike, which commenced at noon, had been orderly.

Disorderly retreat of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's defeated soldiers from the province of Chekiang continued today and thousands of undisciplined soldiers were hovering beyond the boundaries of Shanghai, regular and volunteer police were mobilized as a result of the Cantonese defeat of Shanghai's Chinese defenders and the menace of disorder from the strike.

The entire Chinese section of the city was under guard. Military and civil authorities, fearful of dangerous demonstrations, were equipped and ready for instant action.

Virtually every phase of industry in this great port — the foremost commercial emporium in the far east —was stagnated by the strike. Mail, piled up in post offices, could not be delivered. Without exception the cotton mills, one of the largest industrial units here, closed down.

Trams, because of the desertion of crews, were gradually ceasing operation. Throughout the city, in every industry, workers were quitting hourly.

In a manifesto to workers, the Chinese labor union ordered the strike as a protest to the landing of British troops. Labor officials and workmen were openly pro-Cantonese.

Coming as it did on the heels of the collapse in Chekiang province of the armies of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, defender of Shanghai, the strike has engendered the most serious potentialities for the overwrought foreign population here since civil war flamed out over China.

Even while Marshal Sun reformed his shattered regiments at Kashing, hardly 50 miles south of the gateway to this city, for a last stand against the Cantonese invasion, labor leaders, pledging sympathy with

Washington, Feb. 19. — Senator Means, republican, Colorado, chairman of a judiciary sub-committee appointed to investigate charges against Lafayette French, Jr., renominated as United States attorney for Minnesota, said today he had set no date for the hearing as he had been unable to receive any definite information regarding appearance of witnesses.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 19.—(UP) — With 1,600 additional U. S. marines en route to Nicaragua or ordered to go there, the administration was hopeful today that the liberal revolutionists soon would realize the futility of fighting the Diaz regime recognized by the United States.

President Coolidge and officials here are unable, it is said, to verify reports of alleged Mexican arms shipments to the rebels, but whatever the explanation, the Nicaraguan rebels have developed unexpected military strength, which the president considers menacing to American interests.

Victory of the rebels in the impending battle of Matagalpa would create a dangerous situation which might easily get out of hand unless Admiral Latimer, commander of American forces of occupation, had plenty of marines to draw upon, according to officials here.

The new move toward alleged United States intervention in a domestic Nicaraguan dispute increased criticism of the administration in congressional circles which have demanded wihtdrawal of American forces from that country. But Sen. Borah and others who led the recent senate fight against the Coolidge Caribbean policy were uncertain today whether to raise the issue again in the rush of the closing days of the session.

Regardless of the sporadic opposition aroused, it was clear today that President Coolidge intends to use as many marines and warships as Secretary Kellogg considers necessary to maintain American interests in Nicaragua. The president has given Admiral Latimer full authority if necessary to declare Matagalpa and other important western towns "neutral zones" under American occupation.

Practically the entire eastern coast of Nicaragua — formerly the liberal rebel stronghold—will continue to be held by U. S. marines in seven neutral zones until the civil war ends, it is said.

Zanesville, O., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Julius Johnson, 38, father of 10 children, is carrying out an unusual sentence for non-support.

With the Musginkgum county jail as his abode for the next 60 days, Johnson daily trudges to work for a coal company on a job secured for him by Probate Judge Clarence Graham.

His lunch is prepared by Sheriff W. A. McFarlane.

His wages are collected each week by a representative of the Women's Benevolent society and expended by the society for food and clothing for his wife and children.

Judge Graham personally arranged the details of the sentence.

SEARCH ON FOR THE AMERICAN FREIGHTER ELKTON

BELIEF GROWS THAT CRAFT HAS FOUNDERED IN THE GALE

LIBERATOR FOUND ONLY EXPANSE OF OILY WATER WHERE CRAFT RADIOED

Manila, P. I., Feb. 19.—(UP) — Although search continued today for the American freighter Elkton, caught in a mid-Pacific storm, shipping officials today expressed belief that the craft had foundered.

Officers aboard the steamer Liberator, which answered the distress signal of the Elkton, found nothing but an expanse of oily water at the spot where the disabled craft had given her position.

The Elkton carried a crew of 37 men and had a $1,000,000 cargo of sugar consigned to Honolulu and New York.

There was a feeling in insurance circles, however, that the Elkton may have put in for shelter and because of crippled wireless could not make its safety known.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGER DIES OF WOUNDS

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Vizerillo Guardagni, alleged bootlegger and police character, died today from bullet wounds inflicted when he was ambushed by several men armed with shotguns.

The base would be established 1,000 miles from the objective, he said.

PROCLAIM A GENERAL STRIKE AT SHANGHAI

MARTIAL LAW PREVAILS TODAY THROUGHOUT CHINESE CITY

VIRTUALLY EVERY PHASE OF INDUSTRY IN PORT IS STAGNATED

Shanghai today was confronted with the most serious situation since the "open door" admitted foreigners to the Orient.

Chinese labor struck within the city.

Thousands of undisciplined and defeated troops were falling back toward Shanghai from the province of Chekiang where the Cantonese nationalists apparently were supreme.

Martial law prevailed in the Chinese area of Shanghai.

British troops occupied rural positions around the city.

No disorder had resulted from the strike, and it was believed that foreign troops and warships arrived or en route to Shanghai could guarantee the safety of foreign lives in the event of mob violence.

Tokio authorized the landing of 300 marines at Shanghai.

A force of 300 American marines was here and more were due next week aboard the U. S. S. Chaumont.

By H. FRANCIS MISSELWITZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, Feb. 19—(11:40 P. M.)—Police and Chinese strikers clashed today in various outlying suburbs.

Reports from the south indicated that the Cantonese had decisively defeated the troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang and the foreign colonies here prepared to defend themselves if need be against mob violence or the depredations of undisciplined soldiers who were falling back on this rich city.

Shanghai, Feb. 19.—British skirmishers today occupied positions in the rural outskirts of the city and Chinese labor proclaimed a general strike as a protest against the landing here of British troops and in celebration of the triumph of the Cantonese nationalists in Chekiang.

Martial law prevailed today throughout the Chinese city. So far the general strike, which commenced at noon, had been orderly.

Disorderly retreat of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's defeated soldiers from the province of Chekiang continued today and thousands of undisciplined soldiers were hovering beyond the boundaries of Shanghai, regular and volunteer police were mobilized as a result of the Cantonese defeat of Shanghai's Chinese defenders and the menace of disorder from the strike.

The entire Chinese section of the city was under guard. Military and civil authorities, fearful of dangerous demonstrations, were equipped and ready for instant action.

Virtually every phase of industry in this great port — the foremost commercial emporium in the far east —was stagnated by the strike. Mail, piled up in post offices, could not be delivered. Without exception the cotton mills, one of the largest industrial units here, closed down.

Trams, because of the desertion of crews, were gradually ceasing operation. Throughout the city, in every industry, workers were quitting hourly.

In a manifesto to workers, the Chinese labor union ordered the strike as a protest to the landing of British troops. Labor officials and workmen were openly pro-Cantonese.

Coming as it did on the heels of the collapse in Chekiang province of the armies of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, defender of Shanghai, the strike has engendered the most serious potentialities for the overwrought foreign population here since civil war flamed out over China.

Even while Marshal Sun reformed his shattered regiments at Kashing, hardly 50 miles south of the gateway to this city, for a last stand against the Cantonese invasion, labor leaders, pledging sympathy with

Local Members Entertained by Range Members, Card Party Here Monday

Members of the local order Knights of Columbus left here Wednesday evening at 7:15 o'clock in a chartered bus for Crosby where they were entertained by the range members. A short business meeting was held at the Crosby armory which was followed by a social hour. After a program the lady Foresters of Crosby-Ironton served a delicious repast. This was the first of a series of get-to-gether meetings to be held on the range and elsewhere covering the Brainerd council's territory.

On Monday evening, February 21, another card party will be given by the local Knights at the K. C. hall. A representation is expected from the range and preparations are being made for a large attendance.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS

Semper Paratus Club to Present "Modesty" and "The Wood Box"

Attention is again called to the two plays which the Semper Paratus club of the high school will present this evening in the gymnasium. The plays, "Modesty" and "The Wood Box" contain a cast of talented high school students and should prove highly interesting. The scenes of "The Wood Box" are laid around Gull Lake and should prove of especial interest to a home audience. Plays were directed and produced by the Misses Margaret Armstrong, Marian Linnemann and Shirley Peterson.

The best band that has played for a dance in Brainerd for some time delighted those in attendance last night at the dance party in the U. C. T. Auditorium, at which time Billie Young's New Orleans Strutters Jazz Band furnished the music.

More than 350 people were in attendance, this being the largest attendance at a dance for many months.

Demonstration of the "Black Bottom" by Strutting Lee from New Orleans and Bull Frog Shortie from Alabam was an interesting part of the evening's program. The New Orleans Strutters are booked to play over WCCO in the near future.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Feb. 18, 1902

Last night a number of friends of Arthur Lyddon walked in on him and gave him a surprise and for the balance of the evening the home of the popular young man was made merry. The party was on the event of his thirty-sixth birthday. During the evening the guests were favored with several musical and literary numbers and many popular games were played. It was a particularly enjoyable evening.

George McCullough, Si Hall, and J. C. Congdon left for St. Paul last night to attend the sessions of the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge.

There was a meeting of the city council last night with President Crust in the chair. The following aldermen were present: Gardner, Purdy, Erickson, Rowley, Fogelstrom, Doran and Wright. When the reports of the city officers were called for City Clerk Low submitted the following which is a report of the city's finances for the month of January:

Total	$3,200.20

New Furs Offered for Winter Wear

Calfskin, Ponyskin, Gazelle, Chipmunk, Giraffe, Are Among Novelties.

Furriers are using pelts in ways undreamed of a decade ago, and not only that, but they are using furs that never before have had a place in fashion. Ponyskin and gazelle, chipmunk, giraffe and goatskin have established themselves as furs appropriate for wearing purposes because of the great skill with which they were handled. However, it requires something of an imagination to find anything attractive in the notion of wearing calfskin when it was first reported that this spotty, conspicuous hide was to be employed in the fashioning of coats.

The earliest models were not particularly smart, nor were they interesting, but recently several new coats have appeared which have much to recommend them both from the point of view of chic and serviceability. They are cleverly cut on straight severe lines, very much in the manner of a mannish topcoat, and while striking in appearance are not unduly conspicuous. An effective use of black and white calf is also seen in gray tweed coats where the skin forms a facing down each side of the front.

under a coat of another kind of fur. A model of this type is of creamy tan pony skin, while the jumper is of ermine dyed a pale cafe au lait shade. A skirt of wool crepe matching the jumper is worn.

Alice White, motion picture player, claims that a leopardskin coat makes sports a pleasure. Her new outing wrap is one of Hollywood's latest contributions to feminine style marts.

A Dutch Colonial House —Compact, Convenient, and Comfortable

Six-Room House No. 601 — Designed for American Face Brick Association

THE hospitable quaintness of the gambrel roof has made it universally popular. The long lower rafters, and short upper ones, provide a large well ventilated attic which will tend to keep the upper rooms cool in summer.

It should be built of mingled shades of face brick, the blend selected in conformity with the general surroundings. Careful attention must always be given to the mortar joints and color.

This plan is adaptable for either town or country as all the rooms have exposure to the front or rear. It may be placed on either a narrow or a shallow lot.

A brick wall laid in herringbone pattern leads to the quaint sheltered entrance under the curve of low hanging eaves. Tiny glass panes twinkle a welcome from the upper panel of the heavy Colonial door. Inside one discovers a good-sized stair hall, off which is a convenient closet.

The unusual large living room occupies the entire front of the house. A deep inviting bay window, with wide-built benches faces the wood-burning fireplace. The arched fireplace, its brick trim and hearthstone contrasting with the plaster of the chimney breast, and its low, wide clock shelf smack of Dutch blue platters and shining floors.

The dining room opens from the living room and beyond is a porch overlooking the garden.

Three good sized, well-ventilated bedrooms with closets, a bathroom, a linen press, and a storage closet, occupy the second floor.

Every effort has been made to reduce to a minimum the number of steps necessary for the operation of the household. Both front and rear doors are conveniently near the kitchen, and each other, and just a step from the living room. The basement stairs are so located, with the outside door at the ground level, that an outside basement door is unnecessary.

The basement is full size and contains a laundry, heater and fuel rooms, vegetable cellar, and storage space.

Ceiling heights are, first floor, 9 feet; second floor, 8 feet; content 25,000 cubic feet.

New Evening Wraps Are of the Dolman Family

The marked favor that is shown a dolman silhouette is reflected in the new evening wraps. Some are frankly dolmans. Others have cleverly cut loose sleeves, not unlike a kimono sleeve. This gives a full effect above the waistline and the lower part of the coat fits rather tightly to the figure.

Fabrics this season are peculiarly well adapted to this new silhouette. One sees much use of supple velvets, both plain and patterned, as well as metal in the most georgeous colorings and exotic designs. Unusually smart are metal cloths with small self-toned conventional motifs woven through the surface. These are square, diamond shape or oval and are most interesting and effective.

Fur of the finest quality is used as decoration on the new evening wraps but its application is governed by discretion. In almost every instance it serves to accentuate a definite line.

Galoshes in Tan, Gray Tweed-Like Material

Galoshes in tan or gray tweed-like material are of interest since they are in harmony with the costume colors and with furs. The modern galosh is not as high as formerly and often there's a little turn-down cuff at the top. Knitted wool spats with cuffed tops in sports hosiery colors are designed for wear over silk stockings. They will doubtless be popular with school girls who favored the ankle-length socks of last season.

Two Inches Below Knee

The undecided hem has decided to settle at about two inches below the knee, a length at once dignified and chic. The matron who dresses in good taste, however, will lower hers still further. The hem still wavers in cut, the irregular lines being achieved in a variety of graceful manners.

Carefree

An old man seemed so serene that a philosopher working for the uplift asked him for his motto. The reply was a trifle disconcerting: "Nothing matters."

CHINESE LABOR PROTESTS LANDING BRITISH TROOPS

the Cantonese cause ,struck from within and, in a manifesto, called a general strike, involving thousands of workmen.

Laying down their tools, the workmen demanded the immediate evacuation of the city by all British troops and the soldiers of Marshal Sun, ruler of Kiangsu province, in which this city is situated.

The strike began in orderly fashion. For this reason, civil authorities said, a "state of emergency" has not yet been announced.

The foreign quarters, which consist of the British and French concessions and the American quarter, in which are congregated the thousands of foreign nationals, many of whom fled from the interior, were unaffected by the order of martial law. Hemming in these congestions is the Chinese population of 620,000, about half of whom live within the concession boundaries.

Meanwhile the theatre of war, accelerated by the fall of Hangchow, moved northward to Kashing, midway between Hangchow and Shanghai, where Marshal Sun prepared his entrenchments for the titanic battle that promised to decide the fate of all China.

Remnants of Sun's troops defeated in a battle at Ningpo, trickled through here today with stories of the northern disaster. Although details were lacking, it was indicated that the battle had been one-sided. Observers here believe that the withdrawal from Ningpo was symptomatic of the crumbling morale of Sun's troops, due to the infiltrations of Cantonese propaganda agents. A rapid advance of the nationalists was believed imminent.

As rapidly as the soldiers came ashore here, they were entrained for Kashing, a city lying on the railway midway between Shanghai and Hangchow.

Hangchow is 100 miles south of Shanghai; Ningpo is approximately equi-distance east of Hangchow and the three cities are connected by a railway of which Ningpo is the eastern terminal.

The general strike proclaimed at noon today was orderly until this evening when strikers broke windows in a few trams in outlying districts. The police quelled the ardor of the disturbers. Factories in the suburbs were stormed but quick action minimized the damage.

Shanghai was quiet at midnight.

REPORT THAT KASHING IS BEING LOOTED

Shanghai, Feb. 19.—(6:50 P. M.)—Kashing, a city 50 miles from Shanghai, was being looted today by Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's retreating soldiers, according to reports received here this evening. So far there had been no official confirmation of the reports, but they aroused forebodings here regarding the possible fate of Shanghai if thousands of Sun's routed soldiers descended upon the city.

Military authorities announced today that they were ready to protect foreign lives and property to the limit.

Major industries were paralyzed here tonight by the general strike which became effective at noon. It was estimated that 50,000 Chinese were idle, but the effect of the labor situation would not become fully apparent until Monday. The unions were busy today seeking to force servants in the foreign concessions to join the strike.

Volunteer foreign guards were ready for instant service but the city was calm. Street cars ceased running this afternoon and traffic conditions tonight were the worst in Shanghai's recent history.

The union order for the general strike said it would continue "until further notice" and that it was purely a political gesture against Sun Chuan-Fang. No economic demands had been made this evening. It appeared that Chinese labor was endeavoring by means of the strike weapon to compel Sun to evacuate Shanghai so that the nationalists could occupy the city.

Foreign sailors were held aboard their vessels today, shore leave having been cancelled. The Shanghai police said they were in control of the situation.

JAPANESE MAY LAND 300 MARINES

Tokio, Feb. 19.—The commander of the Japanese forces stationed at Shanghai was ordered today to land 300 marines in that city, if the defense of foreign lives necessitated such a step.

An equal number of marines at Sasebo, a Japanese naval port on the island of Kiushiu, were ordered to be held in readiness to reinforce the landing party.

A third contingent was also standing by at that port, ready to leave for Shanghai at a moment's notice.

London, Feb. 19, — Reports that British troops had occupied stations on the outskirts of Shanghai today caused the belief here that perhaps protect the entire city, French and the British there were determined to the international concessions and the Chinese city instead of merely the international concessions.

Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang was reported today to have lost Kashing, a city midway between Shanghai and Hagchow. Sir Percival Phillips so cabled to the Evening News from Shanghai.

Sun's soldiers still were falling back on Shanghai, Phillips said, presumably pursued by the victorious Cantonese.

London authorities today expressed the belief that the victorious Cantonese would proceed toward Nanking in an effort to isolate Shanghai without approaching the latter city. This belief was indicated in the statement of an authoritative spokesman last night that the Shanghai situation may not be immediately dangerous.

It was believed in London that the Cantonese would hesitate to approach Shanghai when ample forces of foreign troops were there to protect foreign lives and property.

"'My goodness me!' he said.

"'What is it?' was the demand. 'What ails her?'

"'They forgot to put a drop of gasoline in the tank,' said the demonstrator. 'The car has done these 20 miles on its reputation alone.'"

"Yes," drawled the great man, "many are the wonderful holidays I've spent abroad, and I've had a good many adventures, too. While I was in America I hunted bear." "Good heavens! didn't you get awfully cold?" —London Tid-Bits.

Hugo's Notion of Genius

What! No critics? No. No censure? No. You explain everything? Yes. Genius is an entity like nature, and, like it, must be accepted purely and simply. A mountain is a thing to take or leave. . . . In genius everything has its reason for existing. It is because it is. Its shadow is the reverse of its clarity, existing. It is because it is. Its precipice is the condition of its height.—Victor Hugo.

Edsel Ford, who is a great collector of automobile anecdotes, said the other day:

"A man once went to the Blank headquarters to try a Blank car. A stock car was brought round and a demonstrator drove the man 20 miles out into the country. Then the car stopped. The demonstrator got down to see what the trouble was.

"'My goodness me!' he said.

"'What is it?' was the demand. 'What ails her?'

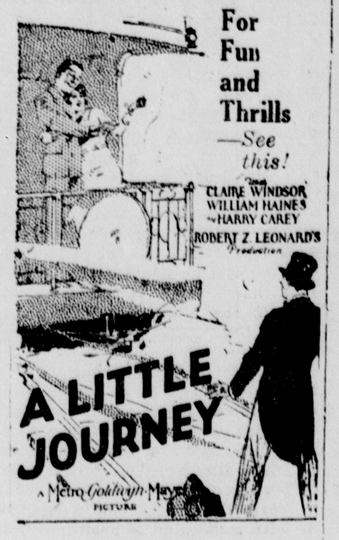

"'They forgot to put a drop of gasoline in the tank,' said the demonstrator. 'The car has done these 20 miles on its reputation alone.'"

LINCOLNIANA OF 1927

IN the Lincolniana of 1927, as published in syndicated news, there is printed a copyrighted picture by Underwood & Underwood and reveals the likeness of Lincoln as sketched by the late Colonel Freeman Thorpe of Brainerd and Hubert.

It mentions that the little-known portrait of Lincoln is from a sketch made by Col. Thorpe in 1861 and shows Lincoln at the age of fifty-two.

"This is said to be the only portrait of the war President drawn entirely from life. Years after Lincoln died, Thorp, who was the painter of four Presidents, studied the existing pictures of Lincoln, but found none so true to life as his penciled sketch. With his vivid memory of the President as he had known him in 1861 he painted the portrait."

It does not resemble the commonly accepted portraits of Lincoln. The face has not the angular contour as shown in sculptoring Lincoln. True, the heavy hair of Lincoln, his large ears, the prominent cheek bones, the stubby short beard are shown, but the head does not appear to have the length of other portraits. Deep lines of care are not so in evidence. The Thorp portrait is one giving the President his most youthful appearance.

Col. Thorp always loved his picture of Lincoln. His heart and mind were attuned with Lincoln. He fought gallantly in the civil war. He sketched him at the time of his address at Gettysburg, and on other occasions, and when he painted the portrait he had accumulated much material to base his conception of the appearance of the great emancipator.

CENSORSHIP OF PLAYS

NEW YORK has witnessed a number of sex plays which have called forth the condemnation of newspapers and societies and a movement is gaining ground for censorship of such plays. One producer withdrew his play when the pressure of public opinion became too strong.

Should a state censorship of plays be established, then will follow in short order censorship of the movies. And the newspapers, too, many of whom published the limit in salacious divorce proceedings, may also feel the heavy hands of a censor.

It behooves actors, producers and playwrights to confine themselves to the decent things and to put a damper on the suggestive things. Life, in many instances has tragedies enough of the baser, ignoble kind, without resorting to the stage to picture further and more intimate details.

He who looks for trouble can always find it. He who pictures only the baser things of life gains a mistaken idea of art. Art in all fields should be uplifting, stimulating, moral and progressive.

Realism can be carried to too great lengths on a stage. We hope New York purges itself of its intemperate drama before the legislature at Albany gets busy. If state play censorship becomes a fact in New York state it will have its effect on all censorship of books, movies, newspapers, etc.

We earnestly hope the common sense of New Yorkers will show some signs of asserting itself and that every New Yorker, figuratively speaking, will take a broom in hand and clean up things.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST FAKE SCHEMES

MINNESOTA is in a position to make the greatest success of any state in the nation in a concerted campaign against fake schemes and stunts designed for newspaper columns, Sam S. Haislet, Minneapolis field secretary of the Minnesota Editorial association, declared in his first report before the 61st annual convention at St. Paul.

"National field men, of which Minnesota now has one among 14 can do much to dictate the planning of national advertising to stop fake schemes and stunts and to kill for all time the publicity hound," Haislet said.

Free advertising would be one of the first evils corrected, the field secretary advised. "Minnesota papers now give away between $2,500 and $10,000 weekly in free space," he added.

Haislet would have the field secretary's office serve as a clearing house between advertising agencies, he told delegates in outlining another phase of his work. "Many advertising agencies are now inclined to overlook the weekly newspaper, and country papers form the chief aim of this department."

Minnesota is leading all states in its membership in the National Editorial association, according to the annual report of Carl Eastwood, president.

BREAKING OF NEW DAWN

"THE most magnificent scene in the world," says Senator Borah, "is to see a great people, after years of turmoil, strife and oppression by outside powers, coming into its own, and that is what we are witnessing in China."

The thought is worth emphasizing. It strikes the deepest chord of history. There is nothing in the pages of the past month that so intrigues the imagination as the revival of some downtrodden race.

Who has not been thrilled by the story of the exodus, or the successful rebellion of the Germans against the tyranny of Rome?

There is more in the Chinese situation than its important effect on foreigners or foreign interests.

An empire has crashed, the shackles of 40 centuries of despotism have been broken, a mighty people is aspiring to avail itself of modern civilization.

Of course there will be chaos, bloodshed and injustice for the time, but those are blind who cannot see the breaking of a new dawn.—Seattle Star.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal announces a new test for liquor. It reports that Representative Johnson of the fourth district said that he had learned how to judge the quality of liquor by rubbing it in his hands and smelling it. This might be a good practice to revive. If it takes the skin off it would be dangerous to the lining of the stomach.

ANOTHER mail order branch plant is coming to the Midway section, St. Paul-Minneapolis. It's the Sears, Roebuck Company, said to have leased the Overland building.

THE St. Paul Pioneer Press Friday issue had one slip-up. It switched pictures on McNary and Haugen. It made a mature man of Haugen and a very young one of McNary.

Scene from "THE FLAMING FRONTIER" A UNIVERSAL PRODUCTION

"The Flaming Frontier," the production showing at the Lyceum Sunday and Monday commemorates the 50th anniversary of the massacre of Custer and the men of his command. The picture is a thrilling story of the early West. It abounds in Indians, cavalry troopers and Western plainsmen and pioneers. The White House at Washington and West Point also appear in it. Among the players in the all-star cast are Hoot Gibson, Dustin Farnum, Anne Cornwall, Ward Crane, Kathleen Key, Eddie Gribbon, Harry Todd, Harold Goodwin, George Fawcett, Charles K. French, Noble Johnson, William Steele, Walter Rodgers, Ed. Wilson, Joe Bonomo.

Harry Carey Discrads His Western Costume

Harry Carey, famous cowboy hero, discards his Western clothes in "A Little Journey," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy drama showing tonight at the Lyceum theatre, to play an unsuccessful suitor in civilized modern dress. Claire Windsor and William Haines are featured.

He Was a Two-Time Winner

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

PAUL VINTON had made the rash statement that he was not dependent on the fortune his father had left him—that had he not been left a penny he would be able to make his own living. He made this statement at the club and Gifford Briggs and Sam Burke laughed at him.

"Just what could you do now?" asked Sam, "to earn your bread and butter?"

"I can drive a machine," said Paul, "and I'm pretty good at mechanics generally; I can repair almost any sort of car—if the trouble isn't serious."

"Poof!" cried Gifford, "you are a fair amateur, I'll admit; but as a professional!—I'll bet you five hundred you could not get a job off your own bat as a chauffeur and keep it three months."

"Done," said Paul. And thereafter for some time his place at the club was vacant.

Soon after Paul's disappearance from his accustomed haunts a young man presented himself before Mrs. Richard Charteris of Beacon street, Boston, and applied for the post of chauffeur in that lady's establishment, which, he understood, had become vacant. Mrs. Charteris looked him over and questioned him; Mr. Charteris did the same as did their daughters, Penelope and Barbara. He was asked for a recommendation from his last employer and presented a most laudatory one. Paul had written it himself and signed his own name to it. The name he gave to his employers was one which he had chosen after much worried cogitation—it was John Snooks.

"Dear me! What an awful name," cried Mrs. Charteris. "We generally call our chauffeur by his last name; but Snooks?—never! Suppose we call you Harrison."

Barbara, the younger of the Charteris girls, regarded Paul with a suspicious look.

"Father," said she, "do you know anything of this Paul Vinton from whom this person professes to bring a recommendation?"

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Charteris, "I know of him. He's old Hard Pine Vinton's son. He inherited heaps of money."

"I rather think I've heard of him," said Barbara. "He's a dissipated youth, I understand; not over bright. Do you think a recommendation from him is of any value?"

Paul tried not to glare at Barbara while she was trodging his character. The girl was just spiteful. But how had Barbara come to hear anything of him at all? As far as he could remember he did not know a soul in Boston.

All the family liked "Harrison," as they insisted upon calling him, except Barbara. And for some reason, which he could not comprehend himself, Barbara was the one person he laid himself out to please. There were times when the girl's manner underwent a complete change. She would speak to Vinton, even smile upon him.

For two months Paul stuck to his job. "One month more," he meditated, "and then I'm going to stage a dramatic climax to my little adventure." He pictured himself disclosing his real identity before the whole family and demanding of Barbara—who would, of course, be overwhelmed with astonishment—her authority for the aspersions she had cast upon his character. And then? Why then, having convinced Barbara of his worthiness, he would approach the young lady from another angle.

Then one day when, because of thinking too much of Barbara, he had been guilty of some little dereliction, Barbara said to him coldly: "Your training with that rather disreputable Mr. Vinton has, evidently, not fitted you for the position of chauffeur in a family such as ours."

Paul lost his head and began an energetic defense of his "late employer."

"Really," said Barbara, "I had no idea that Mr. Vinton was such a paragon. Your able defense of him would lead one to believe, almost, that you were Mr. Vinton himself."

Paul looked at her with a start and an expression on his face that was a confession.

Barbara broke into a peal of laughter. "Oh you guileless youth," said she. "I have known who you were all along. When you applied for the position of chauffeur I saw at once that you were no professional. And that little 'recommend' you presented was a trifle too flattering. I suspected some mystery and made my attack upon Mr. Vinton's character as a chance shot. The way you looked at me confirmed my suspicions. I wrote to my cousin, Tom Perberton, in New York, asking him if he knew one Paul Vinton. He replied that he knew you well, belonged to your club and had heard about the bet you had made. The mystery was cleared up. But I determined to make you really earn your five hundred—it was such fun. If you really want to stay on another month I think I can keep your secret just about that much longer."

"I do want to stay on," replied Paul. "Let's take your blue runabout and go for a drive in the country—and talk it over."

Paul won his five hundred and about two months later put the money into a wedding present for his bride—whose name was Barbara.

He Was a Two-Time Winner

PAUL VINTON had made the rash statement that he was not dependent on the fortune his father had left him—that had he not been left a penny he would be able to make his own living. He made this statement at the club and Gifford Briggs and Sam Burke laughed at him.

"Just what could you do now?" asked Sam, "to earn your bread and butter?"

"I can drive a machine," said Paul, "and I'm pretty good at mechanics generally; I can repair almost any sort of car—if the trouble isn't serious."

"Poof!" cried Gifford, "you are a fair amateur, I'll admit; but as a professional!—I'll bet you five hundred you could not get a job off your own bat as a chauffeur and keep it three months."

"Done," said Paul. And thereafter for some time his place at the club was vacant.

Soon after Paul's disappearance from his accustomed haunts a young man presented himself before Mrs. Richard Charteris of Beacon street, Boston, and applied for the post of chauffeur in that lady's establishment, which, he understood, had become vacant. Mrs. Charteris looked him over and questioned him; Mr. Charteris did the same as did their daughters, Penelope and Barbara. He was asked for a recommendation from his last employer and presented a most laudatory one. Paul had written it himself and signed his own name to it. The name he gave to his employers was one which he had chosen after much worried cogitation—it was John Snooks.

"Dear me! What an awful name," cried Mrs. Charteris. "We generally call our chauffeur by his last name; but Snooks?—never! Suppose we call you Harrison."

Barbara, the younger of the Charteris girls, regarded Paul with a suspicious look.

"Father," said she, "do you know anything of this Paul Vinton from whom this person professes to bring a recommendation?"

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Charteris, "I know of him. He's old Hard Pine Vinton's son. He inherited heaps of money."

"I rather think I've heard of him," said Barbara. "He's a dissipated youth, I understand; not over bright. Do you think a recommendation from him is of any value?"

Paul tried not to glare at Barbara while she was toadying his character. The girl was just spiteful. But how had Barbara come to hear anything of him at all? As far as he could remember he did not know a soul in Boston.

All the family liked "Harrison," as they insisted upon calling him, except Barbara. And for some reason, which he could not comprehend himself, Barbara was the one person he laid himself out to please. There were times when the girl's manner underwent a complete change. She would speak to Vinton, even smile upon him.

For two months Paul stuck to his job. "One month more," he meditated, "and then I'm going to stage a dramatic climax to my little adventure." He pictured himself disclosing his real identity before the whole family and demanding of Barbara—who would, of course, be overwhelmed with astonishment—her authority for the aspersions she had cast upon his character. And then? Why then, having convinced Barbara of his worthiness, he would approach the young lady from another angle.

Then one day when, because of thinking too much of Barbara, he had been guilty of some little dereliction, Barbara said to him coldly: "Your training with that rather disreputable Mr. Vinton has, evidently, not fitted you for the position of chauffeur in a family such as ours."

Paul lost his head and began an energetic defense of his "late employer."

"Really," said Barbara, "I had no idea that Mr. Vinton was such a paragon. Your able defense of him would lead one to believe, almost, that you were Mr. Vinton himself."

Paul looked at her with a start and an expression on his face that was a confession.

Barbara broke into a peal of laughter. "Oh you guileless youth," said she. "I have known who you were all along. When you applied for the position of chauffeur I saw at once that you were no professional. And that little 'recommend' you presented was a trifle too flattering. I suspected some mystery and made my attack upon Mr. Vinton's character as a chance shot. The way you looked at me confirmed my suspicions. I wrote to my cousin, Tom Ferberton, in New York, asking him if he knew one Paul Vinton. He replied that he knew you well, belonged to your club and had heard about the bet you had made. The mystery was cleared up. But I determined to make you really earn your five hundred—it was such fun. If you really want to stay on another month I think I can keep your secret just about that much longer."

"I do want to stay on," replied Paul. "Let's take your blue runabout and go for a drive in the country—and talk it over."

Paul won his five hundred and about two months later put the money into a wedding present for his bride—whose name was Barbara.

MALONEY DECISIVELY OUTPOINTS DELANEY

22,000 FANS' STANDING VOTE OF ACCLAMATION

BOXING WRITERS AT RINGSIDE GIVE EVERY ROUND BUT 5TH TO MALONEY

DELANEY'S MANAGER SAYS DELANEY BROKE THUMB IN THIRD ROUND

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madison Square Garden, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Fat Jimmy Maloney of Boston took a big jump into the running for the world's heavyweight chmapionship in the Garden last night, when he decisively outpointed Jack Delaney, the world's light heavyweight champion.

The referee and the two judges voted a unanimous opinion that Maloney was the winner and 22,000 spectators who had paid close to $200,000 to see the fight agreed with a standing vote of acclamation.

Boxing writers at the ringside gave every round but the fifth to Maloney and some of them called the first round even because in that round there was very little action.

After the contest Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, said that Delaney had broken the thumb on his right hand in the third round and that he was handicapped hopelessly through the remaining seven rounds.

In his dressing room after the fight, Maloney was overwhelmed with Boston friends and rooters, the most important one being old Pop Reilly, his father.

"I knew that boy had it in him," Riley said. "When I saw him step out in the second round and start fighting like he fought I knew that he was certain to win."

In the fifth round, the only round that could have been given to Delaney, Maloney had the skin taken off the bridge of his nose by a right hand punch. But in the corner after the round Dan Carroll and his handlers worked on him perfectly and he came up for the next round, fresh and cool, with a little bit of adhesive over his nose.

Delaney, in his corner, was very tired. Pete Riley, his manager, and his seconds beseeched him to go out and work on what they thought was a fractured nose. Delaney tried to do it but he couldn't hit the mark.

New York, Feb. 19.—The Marquis of Queensberry, grandson of the eighth marquis whose name attaches to the rules of boxing, was simply "amazed" at the spectacle of the Jack Delaney-Jim Maloney fight.

"It was a wonderful sight," he said. "I have never seen so big a bout indoors.

"It was a good fight and a fair and proper decision. I wish we had a fighter in England to compare with either Delaney or Maloney."

HANK FARRELL PICKED WINNER IN THE FIGHT

New York, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Henry Farrell, sports editor of the United Press, picked Jim Maloney to beat Jack Delaney in the first of the big elimination bouts to determine a contender for the title held by Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion.

The majority of sports writers in New York had picked Delaney to beat the Boston fighter.

RAINBOWS BEAT COLD SPRINGS BY SCORE OF 29 TO 24

WHITLOCK AND LAWRENZ STAR AS COLD SPRINGS LOSES FIRST HOME GAME

TEAM TREATED ROYALLY BY COLD SPRINGS PLAYERS AND FANS

The Rainbows administered the first home court defeat of the year to the team at Cold Springs last night, winning from that town by a score of 29 to 24. It was the third defeat of the year for Cold Springs in over 20 games, and the first time they have bowed before an opposing team on their own court.

The players and fans of Cold Springs treated the Rainbows more royally than they have been treated at any game this year. The crowd cheered as much for a Rainbow basket as for one made by their own players, and the Rainbows returned to Brainerd with a high regard for the sportsmanship of their opponents. Cold Springs defeated the Rainbows here last week by a score of 26 to 22.

Honors for the contest go particularly to Whitlock and Lawrenz on offense, and to the entire five, Whitlock, Lawrenz, Welsh, Ericsson and Tribur on defense. These five played the entire game. Whitlock scored 16 points on five field goals and six free throws, while Lawrenz added three baskets, all of which came during the second half. Ericsson had hard luck with his shots, but came through with two field goals in the last five minutes of play, at a time when they were most needed. Welsh made the other three points on a field goal and a free throw in the first half.

The Rainbows pivoted their way to victory, every man slipping away by this means from his opponent. Whitlock particularly showed up well in the way he eluded his guards. The floor work of the Rainbows was good to watch. On defense, Tribur proved to be a hero, taking the long shots of the Cold Springs men off the bankboards and never allowing a follow-up shot, and earned a clear title to a berth on the Rainbows squad for the rest of the year.

The Cold Springs players were good on their short passing game near the basket, but were hurried in their shots by Welsh and Tribur so that they rarely made good on any near-in try at the basket. Most of their points came on long shots from the middle of the court by Meinz and A. Rausch. They changed players frequently, a number of substitutes seeing action during the fray.

The entire game was cleanly played, with good passing, plenty of action for the spectators and good refereeing. Pflepsen was the referee, and handled the game to the satisfaction of everyone.

The game started with scoring for Cold Springs, Rausch making the first basket. When the first half ended, the score was 15 to 12 in the home team's favor. The second half was all Rainbows, especially the third quarter. The Rainbows made nine points to their opponents' two in that period. During the last quarter the Rainbows kept a four to six point lead until the end.

The Rainbows plays at Wright tonight, the players making the trip being Engbretson, Larson, Whitlock, Tribur, Lawrenz and Peterson. They played their game at Cold Springs last night without Engbretson, who was refereeing the Pequot-Pine River game at Pequot.

LOCALS TIE WITH AITKIN IN THE DISTRICT

CAL ORTH WAS CONSISTENT AND HIGH SCORER LAST NIGHT

YOUNG FRANKIE WISE PLAYED A WHALE OF A GAME

The B. H. S. basketball team by winning last night, 22-13, ties with Aitkin for second place in the district rating. The last home game will be played next week with Little Falls and whether they win or lose the Brainerd quint will have closed a fairly successful caging season. On Thursday and Friday, March 3 and 4, elimination games will take place at the Aitkin armory to decide the championship and the strong Crosby-Ironton quint is doped to be an almost certain winner unless a dark horse makes its appearance as it has in the last two final conference tilts. In 1925 Pine River, lowliest team in the district, snatched away laurels from Brainerd while last year Brainerd forged ahead, taking away a championship that general sentiment had given to Crosby.

In last night's game Cal Orth was a consistent and high scorer and with Frankie Wise played a whale of a game. Captain Fitzharris intercepted passes with a strong hand and scored 2 field goals. DeRocher and Lowe were good in the guard position, the latter having many chances to score but was unlucky with his shots. Guin played his usual good game, contributing 2 field goals.

The opening minutes of play were ed decision over Tracey Ferguson, fast and furious, Wise making the first score followed by an Aitkin cager which tied the count. Aitkin followed with a free throw and maintained a lead until Orth with a field goal broke the tie leaving a 8-6 field goal broke the tie leaving an 8-6 held the edge until the final whistle. Smith of Bemidji refereed.

The lineup:

Brainerd — Fitzharris, Wise, forwards; Orth, center; DeRocher, Lowe, guards. Subs, Hautala, Guin.

Scoring field goals—Wise, 2; Orth, 3; Fitzharris, 2; Guin, 2; Aitkin, 6.

Free throws made—Fitzharris, 1; Wise, 1; Guin, 1; DeRocher, 1; Aitkin, 1.

Root Making Good

While there is nothing very impressive in Charlie Root's record of last season as a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, so far as the won and lost part of it is concerned, yet nevertheless, keen judges are inclined to rank him as one of the great young pitchers of the year. Root won 18 and lost 17 games. His club finished with a higher percentage than that. But Root pitched some grand ball in many of those 17 games he lost.

The second half was all Rainbows, especially the third quarter. The Rainbows made nine points to their opponents' two in that period. During the last quarter the Rainbows kept a four to six point lead until the end.

The Rainbows plays at Wright tonight, the players making the trip being Engbretson, Larson, Whitlock, Tribur, Lawrenz and Peterson. They played their game at Cold Springs last night without Engbretson, who was refereeing the Pequot-Pine River game at Pequot.

LOCALS TIE WITH AITKIN IN THE DISTRICT

CAL ORTH WAS CONSISTENT AND HIGH SCORER LAST NIGHT

YOUNG FRANKIE WISE PLAYED A WHALE OF A GAME

The B. H. S. basketball team by winning last night, 22-13, ties with Aitkin for second place in the district rating. The last home game will be played next week with Little Falls and whether they win or lose the Brainerd quint will have closed a fairly successful caging season. On Thursday and Friday, March 3 and 4, elimination games will take place at the Aitkin armory to decide the championship and the strong Crosby-Ironton quint is doped to be an almost certain winner unless a dark horse makes its appearance as it has in the last two final conference tilts. In 1925 Pine River, lowliest team in the district, snatched away laurels from Brainerd while last year Brainerd forged ahead, taking away a championship that general sentiment had given to Crosby.

In last night's game Cal Orth was a consistent and high scorer and with Frankie Wise played a whale of a game. Captain Fitzharris intercepted passes with a strong hand and scored 2 field goals. DeRocher and Lowe were good in the guard position, the latter having many chances to score but was unlucky with his shots. Guin played his usual good game, contributing 2 field goals.

The opening minutes of play were fast and furious, Wise making the first score followed by an Aitkin cager which tied the count. Aitkin followed with a free throw and maintained a lead until Orth with a field goal broke the tie leaving a 8-6 field goal broke the tie leaving an 8-6 held the edge until the final whistle. Smith of Bemidji refereed.

The lineup:

Brainerd — Fitzharris, Wise, forwards; Orth, center; DeRocher, Lowe, guards. Subs, Hautala, Guin.

Scoring field goals—Wise, 2; Orth, 3; Fitzharris, 2; Guin, 2; Aitkin, 6.

Free throws made—Fitzharris, 1; Wise, 1; Guin, 1; DeRocher, 1; Aitkin, 1.

Root Making Good

While there is nothing very impressive in Charlie Root's record of last season as a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, so far as the won and lost part of it is concerned, yet nevertheless, keen judges are inclined to rank him as one of the great young pitchers of the year. Root won 18 and lost 17 games. His club finished with a higher percentage than that. But Root pitched some grand ball in many of those 17 games he lost.

New York — Sammy Vogel won from Charlie Manty on a decision; Joe La Gray of Johnstown, Pa., gained decision over Tracey Ferguson, Wallingford, Conn.

FIGHT RESULTS

Boston—Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., easily outpointed Lou Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., in 10-rounds.

Erie, Pa. — Henry Leonard, Chicago, won from Rosey Stoy, Lancaster, in 10-rounds to a decision.

Hazelton, Pa.—Charley Arthur of Newark, N. J., and Allentown Joe Gans fought 10 rounds to a draw.

Worcester, Mass.—Johnny Nemis, welterweight champion of Canada dropped a decision to Marty Donahue of Worcester. Jack Moran of St. Paul was knocked out by Transey Norton of Roxbury in two rounds.

"Monte" Wells Sets Hurdle Record

Purdue Wrestlers Defeat Northwestern

La Fayette, Ind. — Decidedly superior in the heavier weights, Purdue's wrestling team defeated Northwestern, 19-6.

When a champion fighter acquires years and ease, has too much money and flattery and too many distractions and worries, and some youngster comes along and polishes him off, it is explained there were drugs in his coffee.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

THE BIGGEST DOG WAS ONCE A PUP

Talent, in its crude state, has very little market value. It is like ore that has not gone through the smelter. It needs refining. And the refining process, by the way, is often an extremely painful, tedious and expensive one.

The most skillful surgeon in America was once a blunderbuss. He knew nothing of incisions, draining of wounds, blood clotting, anaesthetics, heart action, antiseptics, etc. All this he had to learn. He may have learned it easily and quickly because of his interest and enthusiasm, but he did not acquire his skill by any miracle.

The greatest architect now living had to learn to draw straight lines and graceful curves. It was necessary for him to master the intricacies of tensility, proportion, symmetry and design. His skill and imagination may be almost uncanny by this time, but it was not always so.

Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of them all, threw a lot of wild ones before he established that remarkable control. Babe Ruth struck out a good many times before he began hitting home runs. Christy Matthewson, one of the greatest stars of baseballdom, spent months at a time pitching to the neighbor boys, getting the muscles of his arm subordinated to his will.

There was a time when Paderewski knew nothing about music, when James Montgomery Flagg was totally ignorant of color values, when Galli-Curci could not "carry a tune," when Henry Ford could not borrow a dollar and when Rudyard Kipling didn't know his A B C's.

Brisbane's first editorials were not paid for at one hundred thousand dolars a year. Mark Twain's first book did not produce fifty thousand dollars in royalties. Francois Millett painted pictures for years before he attracted any wide attention.

Even the man who is born great finds it necessary to work hard or his greatness deserts him.

Nature has no favorites, besides the industrious.

Famous Minor Poet

One of the best-known short poems in the English language is "Old Armchair," written by Eliza Cook, who is called the poet of domestic affections. She was born in Southwark, London, England, in 1818. She early achieved success in the comparatively humble literary path she laid down for herself, and her articles and poems maintained her in comfort. She died in 1889.

Magnets Last Long

The life of a permanent magnet, magnetized in any manner whatever, has never been determined. A magnet made of the best quality of steel, properly heat-treated and aged, and used under the best conditions of service, would probably deteriorate only a negligible amount in the lifetime of a single observer.

Rainbow Tints in New Dance Frocks

Ruffled Tulle, Crisp, Frilly, Designed to Be Worn at Southern Resorts.

Of American design lately brought out, there are some models in dance frocks and wraps that are individual and unusual. Rainbow tints are shown in several of these, the dress itself having in one design a foundation of pale lilac taffeta, with three tiers of chiffon, shading from deep violet to the palest tint. Tulle frocks in ombre are most engaging for the grown woman who dances, one of these made over peach-colored tulle having aiso a scarf of ombre tulle that gave the effect of rainbow colors as the dancer moved. A chic little frock of all-taffeta presents the quaint model that is flounced from belt to hem on a very wide skirt. This model is in shades of green, the flounces being sewn together with silver thread.

The frock of ruffled tulle is now, as always, enchanting and the latest models designed for the South are made in extreme style, very crisp and frilly, in the daintiest and brightest colors. White tulle, made with a deep fichu treatment of the bodice, has three undulating flounces covering the skirt, with silver sequins scattered over the surface. Pastel shades are being worn in all the sheer materials, in the lustrous taffetas of which one especially smart model is shown in the misty green made bouffant with a succession of panniers. This is the type of frock in which the younger woman will be seen, with a scarf cape, wrap or crepe shawl for evening dances at the fashionable Southern watering place.

Ostrich is being used considerably on models for dancing. Droeuillet has shown some delightful frocks of sheer material, feather trimmed, one an especially chic and pretty thing of pale pink chiffon with ostrich on the skirt only, a border about the hem forming a deep apronlike scallop in front. Another frock from the same designer is made of pale-blue georgette crepe with full-gathered skirt that hangs in deep points and bands of silver spangles on the bodice and about the hips.

A black velvet dress of the period style with fitted bodice, and bertha and overskirt of white batiste embroidered solidly with eyelets and lace insets, adds a touch of color in the girdle and bow of robin's-egg blue grosgrain ribbon.

Metal Colors Favored by Prominent Designer

What are called the colors of the garden will never grow old—violet, rose, orchid and all the flowers, says Mme. Doucet, noted French designer, in forecasting coming fashions—but newer and of permanent interest are those colors that have made the wide range of lames so marvelously beautiful. All the metals are brought from the ground, just as all the flowers were brought from the garden. Doucet is using lames of slate, copper, steel, iron, sulphur, coal, silver, gold, platinum, zinc and brass. And these will be popular in her models for some months, especially in evening gowns.

Many Winsome Colors Are Used for Evening Wear

Collections of the leading Paris dressmakers are significant of the fashionable colors for the season. Among them are evening dresses entirely embroidered in silver and gold, dresses of Nile green, apple green, a green paler still glinting with an opalescent sheen, and various shades of pink toning down to flesh-color. For afternoon wear, navy blue trimmed with red, gold and vivid colors in Russian designs are much featured. Collars, cuffs and belts in kid showing the latest perforations are worn on many of these dresses.

Something Lacking in Men of Great Minds

Many great philosophers have shown an extraordinary inability to carry out their teachings in daily life. Their precepts are sound enough; their wisdom is undoubted. Yet they are foolish fellows, after all.

The reason is not so obscure as it seems at first sight. A man may have a fine brain, so that, in the quiet of his study, he can put in words great wisdom. But along with that fine brain may go a weak character which balks him whenever he attempts to cope with stark reality.

John Stuart Mill was a great philosopher. But in his daily life he committed every conceivable blunder. Thomas Carlyle concentrated his profound mind on the causes of misery in the world, and made his own home utterly unhappy by an uncontrolled and irritable temperament. He could give the world a lot; but for his long-suffering wife, whom he loved in his own way, he had little but harsh words, scoldings, and churlishness.

Anatole France, greatest of modern French writers and commentators on life, said, shortly before he died: "I have never known a moment's happiness." Why had he not known happiness? Surely because, for all his wisdom, he had not, after all, mastered the art of life.

The great German philosopher, Schopenhauer, whose treatises on metaphysics are classic, was a fool in the affairs of life. While writing his monumental treatises on philosophy he yet contrived to be so peppery, suspicious, and quarrelsome that his own mother, with whom he lived, requested him to go away from her. It is said that he had not a single friend.

Many a simple, ignorant man possesses more real wisdom than a learned professor. The true test is action; those men are wise, who live wisely.

Wesley Great Horseman

The most redoubtable horseman of the Eighteenth century was John Wesley. All through his active life he rode from 60 to 70 miles a day; after he was eighty years of age his record for a year was from 4,000 to 5,000 miles. Often he was in the saddle by 3 a. m., and, when weather permitted, it was his custom to ride with loose rein, reading history the while.—A. M. Pagan, in the Empire Review.

Mileage of Engines

The average passenger engine, if traveling on good roads covers approximately 35,000 miles in one year. The average distance which a freight engine travels in a year is approximately 25,000 miles on good roads.

Mouth Shutters

We have automatic door shutters and automatic contrivances for a lot of other things, but up to this time no inventor has filed application for a patent on an automatic mouth shutter, and goodness knows they could be used to good advantage. The principal trouble in selling them would be to convince the one who should have such a helpful device that it would be just the thing for him.—Hartford News.

Valuable "Stone"

Pumice stone is the name given to a light spongy substance formed out of the froth-like part of lava thrown out by volcanic eruption. Its lightness is due to gases escaping from cavities and passages just as it is on the point of becoming solid. It occurs abundantly in the Lepari islands, the Auvergne mountains, Iceland and the Canary islands.

Monk Originated Custom

The custom of counting the years from the birth of Christ was originated by Dionysius Exiguus, a learned monk of Rome, who lived in the early Sixth century.

Matters of Growth

Arts and sciences are not cast in a mold, but are found and perfected by degrees, by often handling and polishing, as bears leisurely lick their cubs into shape.—Montaigne.

Another reminder that change is not always progress is an entirely new way to make turkey stuffing.—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Only Semi-Precious Stone

Voices

The day is full of voices—meaningless, insistent. They drone upon the street, chatter at parties, hurl snatches of themselves at you from passing automobiles, rise up and down dramatically from open-air platforms, end with question marks at the office, trail after you on street cars. . . . Your ears, forever open, almost have to hear.

Yet in this same room with you are voices of utmost silence, whose every word concerns you. You control them more surely than you control telephone or radio. Open a page—they talk to you quietly. Close a page—they are through. They are the voices of the advertisements. They talk direct to you. Tell of better roofing for your home, more protective paint for its walls. Shoes your youngsters can't scuffle out easily. Salads, delicious drinks, to gratify you. Reinforced hosiery, cooler underwear, purer soaps. You believe in these voices, for they have to be sincere. Else they would not be in these pages—could not have the nation's belief. You buy the goods they proffer, for you know already what those goods will do. And wide belief has lowered their prices. They are economical—sure!

Loose products everywhere in stores are crying out, "Buy me!" But behind the voice of the advertised product is the voice of authority. The voice that tells the why, what, when, where and how of the goods you buy.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

THE BIGGEST DOG WAS ONCE A PUP

Talent, in its crude state, has very little market value. It is like ore that has not gone through the smelter. It needs refining. And the refining process, by the way, is often an extremely painful, tedious and expensive one.

The most skillful surgeon in America was once a blunderbuss. He knew nothing of incisions, draining of wounds, blood clotting, anaesthetics, heart action, antiseptics, etc. All this he had to learn. He may have learned it easily and quickly because of his interest and enthusiasm, but he did not acquire his skill by any miracle.

The greatest architect now living had to learn to draw straight lines and graceful curves. It was necessary for him to master the intricacies of tensility, proportion, symmetry and design. His skill and imagination may be almost uncanny by this time, but it was not always so.

Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of them all, threw a lot of wild ones before he established that remarkable control. Babe Ruth struck out a good many times before he began hitting home runs. Christy Matthewson, one of the greatest stars of baseballdom, spent months at a time pitching to the neighbor boys, getting the muscles of his arm subordinated to his will.

There was a time when Paderewski knew nothing about music, when James Montgomery Flagg was totally ignorant of color values, when Galli-Curci could not "carry a tune," when Henry Ford could not borrow a dollar and when Rudyard Kipling didn't know his A B C's.

Brisbane's first editorials were not paid for at one hundred thousand dolars a year. Mark Twain's first book did not produce fifty thousand dollars in royalties. Francois Millett painted pictures for years before he attracted any wide attention.

Even the man who is born great finds it necessary to work hard or his greatness deserts him.

Nature has no favorites, besides the industrious.

Famous Minor Poet

One of the best-known short poems in the English language is "Old Armchair," written by Eliza Cook, who is called the poet of domestic affections. She was born in Southwark, London, England, in 1818. She early achieved success in the comparatively humble literary path she laid down for herself, and her articles and poems maintained her in comfort. She died in 1889.

Magnets Last Long

The life of a permanent magnet, magnetized in any manner whatever, has never been determined. A magnet made of the best quality of steel, properly heat-treated and aged, and used under the best conditions of service, would probably deteriorate only a negligible amount in the lifetime of a single observer.

Rainbow Tints in New Dance Frocks

Ruffled Tulle, Crisp, Frilly, Designed to Be Worn at Southern Resorts.

Of American design lately brought out, there are some models in dance frocks and wraps that are individual and unusual. Rainbow tints are shown in several of these, the dress itself having in one design a foundation of pale lilac taffeta, with three tiers of chiffon, shading from deep violet to the palest tint. Tulle frocks in ombre are most engaging for the grown woman who dances, one of these made over peach-colored tulle having also a scarf of ombre tulle that gave the effect of rainbow colors as the dancer moved. A chic little frock of all-taffeta presents the quaint model that is flounced from belt to hem on a very wide skirt. This model is in shades of green, the flounces being sewn together with silver thread.

The frock of ruffled tulle is now, as always, enchanting and the latest models designed for the South are made in extreme style, very crisp and frilly, in the daintiest and brightest colors. White tulle, made with a deep fichu treatment of the bodice, has three undulating flounces covering the skirt, with silver sequins scattered over the surface. Pastel shades are being worn in all the sheer materials, in the lustrous taffetas of which one especially smart model is shown in the misty green made bouffant with a succession of panniers. This is the type of frock in which the younger woman will be seen, with a scarf cape, wrap or crepe shawl for evening dances at the fashionable Southern watering place.

Ostrich is being used considerably on models for dancing. Droeuillet has shown some delightful frocks of sheer material, feather trimmed, one an especially chic and pretty thing of pale pink chiffon with ostrich on the skirt only, a border about the hem forming a deep apronlike scallop in front. Another frock from the same designer is made of pale-blue georgette crepe with full-gathered skirt that hangs in deep points and bands of silver spangles on the bodice and about the hips.

A black velvet dress of the period style with fitted bodice, and bertha and overskirt of white batiste embroidered solidly with eyelets and lace insets, adds a touch of color in the girdle and bow of robin's-egg blue grosgrain ribbon.

Metal Colors Favored by Prominent Designer

What are called the colors of the garden will never grow old—violet, rose, orchid and all the flowers, says Mme. Doucet, noted French designer, in forecasting coming fashions—but newer and of permanent interest are those colors that have made the wide range of lames so marvelously beautiful. All the metals are brought from the ground, just as all the flowers were brought from the garden. Doucet is using lames of slate, copper, steel, iron, sulphur, coal, silver, gold, platinum, zinc and brass. And these will be popular in her models for some months, especially in evening gowns.

Many Winsome Colors Are Used for Evening Wear

Collections of the leading Paris dressmakers are significant of the fashionable colors for the season. Among them are evening dresses entirely embroidered in silver and gold, dresses of Nile green, apple green, a green paler still glinting with an opalescent sheen, and various shades of pink toning down to flesh-color. For afternoon wear, navy blue trimmed with red, gold and vivid colors in Russian designs are much featured. Collars, cuffs and belts in kid showing the latest perforations are worn on many of these dresses.

Something Lacking in Men of Great Minds

Many great philosophers have shown an extraordinary inability to carry out their teachings in daily life. Their precepts are sound enough; their wisdom is undoubted. Yet they are foolish fellows, after all.

The reason is not so obscure as it seems at first sight. A man may have a fine brain, so that, in the quiet of his study, he can put in words great wisdom. But along with that fine brain may go a weak character which balks him whenever he attempts to cope with stark reality.

John Stuart Mill was a great philosopher. But in his daily life he committed every conceivable blunder. Thomas Carlyle concentrated his profound mind on the causes of misery in the world, and made his own home utterly unhappy by an uncontrolled and irritable temperament. He could give the world a lot; but for his long-suffering wife, whom he loved in his own way, he had little but harsh words, scoldings, and churlishness.

Anatole France, greatest of modern French writers and commentators on life, said, shortly before he died: "I have never known a moment's happiness." Why had he not known happiness? Surely because, for all his wisdom, he had not, after all, mastered the art of life.

The great German philosopher, Schopenhauer, whose treatises on metaphysics are classic, was a fool in the affairs of life. While writing his monumental treatises on philosophy he yet contrived to be so peppery, suspicious, and quarrelsome that his own mother, with whom he lived, requested him to go away from her. It is said that he had not a single friend.

Many a simple, ignorant man possesses more real wisdom than a learned professor. The true test is action; those men are wise, who live wisely.

Wesley Great Horseman

The most redoubtable horseman of the Eighteenth century was John Wesley. All through his active life he rode from 60 to 70 miles a day; after he was eighty years of age his record for a year was from 4,000 to 5,000 miles. Often he was in the saddle by 3 a. m., and, when weather permitted, it was his custom to ride with loose rein, reading history the while.—A. M. Pagan, in the Empire Review.

Mileage of Engines

The average passenger engine, if traveling on good roads covers approximately 35,000 miles in one year. The average distance which a freight engine travels in a year is approximately 25,000 miles on good roads.

Mouth Shutters

We have automatic door shutters and automatic contrivances for a lot of other things, but up to this time no inventor has filed application for a patent on an automatic mouth shutter, and goodness knows they could be used to good advantage. The principal trouble in selling them would be to convince the one who should have such a helpful device that it would be just the thing for him.—Hartford News.

Valuable "Stone"

Pumice stone is the name given to a light spongy substance formed out of the froth-like part of lava thrown out by volcanic eruption. Its lightness is due to gases escaping from cavities and passages just as it is on the point of becoming solid. It occurs abundantly in the Lepari islands, the Auvergne mountains, Iceland and the Canary Islands.

Monk Originated Custom

The custom of counting the years from the birth of Christ was originated by Dionysius Exiguus, a learned monk of Rome, who lived in the early Sixth century.

Matters of Growth

Arts and sciences are not cast in a mold, but are found and perfected by degrees, by often handling and polishing, as bears leisurely lick their cubs into shape.—Montaigne.

Give Us the Old Way

Another reminder that change is not always progress is an entirely new way to make turkey stuffing.—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Only Semi-Precious Stone

A moonstone is a semi-precious stone, a variety of feldspar which exhibits a delicate, pearly, opalescent play of color.

Voices

The day is full of voices—meaningless, insistent. They drone upon the street, chatter at parties, hurl snatches of themselves at you from passing automobiles, rise up and down dramatically from open-air platforms, end with question marks at the office, trail after you on street cars. . . . Your ears, forever open, almost have to hear.

Yet in this same room with you are voices of utmost silence, whose every word concerns you. You control them more surely than you control telephone or radio. Open a page—they talk to you quietly. Close a page—they are through. They are the voices of the advertisements. They talk direct to you. Tell of better roofing for your home, more protective paint for its walls. Shoes your youngsters can't scuffle out easily. Salads, delicious drinks, to gratify you. Reinforced hosiery, cooler underwear, purer soaps. You believe in these voices, for they have to be sincere. Else they would not be in these pages—could not have the nation's belief. You buy the goods they proffer, for you know already what those goods will do. And wide belief has lowered their prices. They are economical—sure!

Loose products everywhere in stores are crying out, "Buy me!" But behind the voice of the advertised product is the voice of authority. The voice that tells the why, what, when, where and how of the goods you buy.

Heed these courteous voices often. Read the advertisements every day

COUNTY GAINS $930,817 IN HIGHWAY OUTLAYS

Crow Wing County Expenditures of State Highway Funds, $1,436,718

TAXES PAID $505,901

Trunk Highway No. 27 With $510,396 is Largest Expenditure

Deducting $505,901, the amount paid by Crow Wing county motorists to the State of Minnesota up to 1926, from the total outlays to date on trunk highways in the county which amounts to $1,436,718, the net advance under the Babcock plan to the county amounts to a total of $930,817, according to figures given out this week by C. M. Babcock, highway commissioner.

Crow Wing county motorists in 1925 and 1926 paid $78,462 in estimated gas taxes while autotaxes in 1926 amounted to $85,547 and auto taxes paid before 1926 amounted to $341,892, making the total paid to the state $505,901.

Trunk Highway No. 27 with 17.0 mileage in the county stands out in the lead in expenditures by the state. Cost of maintenance of this highway in 1926 amounted to $18,188 while improvements amounted to $380,417. A previous expenditure of $111,791 had been made on the highway before 1926, making the total outlay for the highway $510,396.

Unclassified reimbursements, refundments, etc., on 98.4 additional miles amount to $610,317.

Trunk Highway No. 19 with 24.1 mileage in the county had a total outlay of $134,658. Maintenance in 1926 amounted to $39,225 and $95,433 was expended before 1926.

Trunk Highway No. 2 with 34.8 mileage in the county had a total outlay of $104,697 with $21,193 in maintenance and $8,471 in improvements during 1926. A total of $75,033 had been expended on this highway in the county before 1926.

Trunk Highway No. 18 with a total mileage of 22.5 in the county has a total outlay under the new plan of $76,650 with $7,447 maintenance paid in 1926 and a total of $69,203 expended before 1926.

Eighty-five counties, in which rural territory predominates, have received an average of $2.47 in trunk highway improvements for every dollar contributed by car owners in the county since the system was established, according to Commissioner C. M. Babcock.

Crow Wing county is among those which received more than was collected in the county.

Car owners in Hennepin and Ramsey counties have contributed $18,562,736 in license and gas taxes from 1921 to 1926, while $4,684,347 has been spent on trunk highways in those two counties. The other 85 counties have received $93,247,322 in improvements and have contributed $37,830,259. The total expenditures on the trunk highways to the end of 1926 were $97,931,669 and the total auto and gas taxes $56,392,995. The difference is made up by federal aid ond county reimbursement bonds. Only three rural counties have received less than they contributed and these are probably due for larger improvements in the next few years.

Whether a county has received more or less in road funds than was contributed from the county, the car owners in the county benefit because they get the use of trunk highways all over the state. A drive into adjoining counties is a regular experience with all car owners, while the majority usually take several long trips each year.

Due to the policy of doing construction work in as large projects as possible, to get low prices, the department has been unable to distribute funds evenly by counties each yer. Improvements made on some of the most heavily traveled routes, where maintenance costs have been excessive, will release these funds for use elsewhere, and it may be expected that the three rural counties which were in the minus column, and those which had a comparatively small excess of improvements over car taxes, will receive larger benefits in the next few years.

Every county also benefits more or less from the tourist trade which has grown so rapidly since Minnesota began systematic improvement of its trunk highways. H. C. Hotaling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association estimates that visitors spent $71,000,000 in Minnesota in 1926. This is an average of more than $800,000 per county. Even counties that have no lakes or summer resorts get more or less business from tourists driving through. If Mr. Hotaling's estimate is correct, tourists spent more money in Minnesota last year than the entire amount paid out by car owners in the state for license and gasoline taxes since the trunk highway system was established.

CONTEST WINNER IS ANNOUNCED

Paige Sedan Won by Rev. David C. Holst, Pine River; Name Entered Jan. 13

SELECTED "ALLIED CLOTHIERS"

Brainerd Contestants Give Same Name But Make Entries Later

On January 8th the Peterson Clothing Company store opened a contest for a name. The contest closed on Saturday, January 29th, and the name was selected at the convention of the N. W. Buyers & Jobbers, Inc., at the Ryan Hotel, St. Paul, Monday, February 14.

There were over 24,000 coupons entered and among them were hundreds of very good names. The judges selected ten names in the order given and the figures opposite each are the number of votes each received on the first and second ballot. The name Allied Clothiers received forty-nine and the name Unitbuyers sixteen ballots on the final vote.

Name	1st Vote	2nd Vote
Unitbuyers Stores	25	16
Betterwear Stores	0	0
Allied Clothiers	29	49
Home Town Stores	2	0
Pay-Money Stores	0	0
Savemor Stores	2	0
Economart Stores	0	0
Savall Stores	0	0
Fairtrade Stores	2	0

The name selected is Allied Clothiers and the $1,450 Paige 6-45 sedan was awarded to Rev. David C. Holst, a Methodist minister at Pine River, Minn., whose coupon was entered at the Town Toggery at Pine River on January 13th, at 11 a. m.

The automobile, therefore, was given to the one whose coupon was the first entered according to the rules of the contest.

There were sixteen other coupons in the contest with the name Allied Clothiers on them, and they are as follows:

Mrs. R. E. Cody, Brainerd, Minn., January 15—3:30 p. m.
S. L. Conley, Cannon Falls, Minn., January 16—1 p. m.
Mrs. F. B. Prentice, Waseca, Minn., January 17—8:20 a. m.
Mrs. R. L. Fairbrother, Yankton, S. D., January 19—1:25 p. m.
Ingvold Jackson, Duluth, Minn., January 20—8:55 a. m.
H. R. Bye, Minneapolis, Minn., January 20—3:10 p. m.
H. R. Bye, Minneapolis, Minn., January 20—3:10 p. m.
D. C. DeVinney, Mobridge, S. D., January 21—2 p. m.
Sigred Swanson, Brainerd, Minn., January 21—4 p. m.
Geo. A. Mattson, Schaffer, Minn., January 22—12:30 a. m.
C. E. Peterson, Binford, N. D., January 22—1 p. m.
L. W. Tyrrell, Brainerd, Minn., January 22—2 p. m.
Morris S. Knudson, Duluth, Minn., January 24—2:20 p. m.
Geo. Hanson, Kenyon, Minn., January 28—10:15 a. m.
Don S. Wolverton, Dolan, S. D., January 28—2:05 p. m.
Stewart F. Clarkson, St. Charles, Minn., January 29—8:49 p. m.

This contest has created a great deal of interest in this community, for it is a very unusual thing for a store to give away a $1,450 automobile. This was possible only because this store is a member of the N. W. Buyers & Jobbers, Inc., which is an organization of 134 retail clothing stores.

These stores are Allied Clothiers, as they buy together in large quantities, which gives them a tremendous buying power, which is reflected in the savings to their customers.

FEDERAL AGENTS RAID TWO HOUSES

Joseph Hill, and Arnold Hill Charged With Sale and Possession

FIND MOONSHINE WHISKEY

Waived Hearing and Bound Over to Duluth Term of Federal Court

Federal agents yesterday afternoon raided two houses in Brainerd, the one at the residence of Joseph Hill, 1107 Oak street where moonshine whiskey was seized and the other at the residence of Arnold Hill at 901 11th street S. E. where moonshine whiskey was also seized.

The two were brought before U. S. Commissioner A. D. Polk this morning charged with possession and sale. They waived hearing and were bound over to the Duluth term of the Federal Court. Bail of $2,000 was placed on Joseph Hill while bail of $1,000 was placed on Arnold Hill.

5TH ANNUAL TON LITTER CONTEST

Entries Must be Received by May 1; Judging in November

WORK ACCOMPLISHES RESULTS

Production of Ton or More of Pork From One Sow in 180 Days, an Achievement

Announcement of the fifth annual ton litter contest for Minnesota this year is made by H. G. Zavord livestock specialist of the University Farm, St. Paul, Department of Agriculture, in a letter to County Agent E. G. Roth. The closing date for the entry will be May 1. Judging will take place the early part of November. Information may be received from Mr. Roth.

The following information is contained in the letter:

"The production of a ton or more of pork from one sow in 180 days is an achievement worthy of every swine producer in Minnesota. It is a real accomplishment and the objects of the contest were proven in that the greatest results were obtained by men who paid careful attention to good breeding, good feeding and good management.

"Ton litter work brings results Many contestants told of saving more pigs per sow as a result of joining the contest. Others who for the first time carried out the sanitation system are sold on the method of raising hogs. One man said, 'This was the first year I raised pigs that I did not have to worm.' A common expression heard among contestants was that they marketed more pounds of pork from one sow than their neighbors did from two or three sows and some put it as high as four.

"Most of the pigs in the ton litter contest were ready for the market from 5-5½ months. This shorter time lessens the risk with disease. Pigs crowded for the early market on an average bring a higher price than those marketed later when markets are flooded. The fastest gains proved to be the cheapest gains. Full fed pigs make more economical gains than limited fed ones.

"A swine producer has nothing to lose and everything to gain in joining the ton litter contest. If farmers are not successful in producing a ton of pork in 180 days, they ask themselves why. They make deductions and try to remedy their mistakes next year. As a result of ton litter work, more attention is being given to selecting well bred breeding stock of the improved type, especially the selection of young purebred boars, feeding of balanced rations, control of diseases and parasites and providing more and better pastures.

"Let me suggest the appointment of a ton litter committee in each county. Sell the contest on its merit. Get local prize money where possible. Already trophies, trips and several hundred dollars in cash have been contributed toward state prize money. Encourage the showing of outstanding litters at local shows or fairs."

COUNTY GAINS $930,817 IN HIGHWAY OUTLAYS

Crow Wing County Expenditures of State Highway Funds, $1,436,718

TAXES PAID $505,901

Trunk Highway No. 27 With $510,396 is Largest Expenditure

Deducting $505,901, the amount paid by Crow Wing county motorists to the State of Minnesota up to 1926, from the total outlays to date on trunk highways in the county which amounts to $1,436,718, the net advance under the Babcock plan to the county amounts to a total of $930,817, according to figures given out this week by C. M. Babcock, highway commissioner.

Crow Wing county motorists in 1925 and 1926 paid $78,462 in estimated gas taxes while autotaxes in 1926 amounted to $85,547 and auto taxes paid before 1926 amounted to $341,892, making the total paid to the state $505,901.

Trunk Highway No. 27 with 17.0 mileage in the county stands out in the lead in expenditures by the state. Cost of maintenance of this highway in 1926 amounted to $18,188 while improvements amounted to $380,417. A previous expenditure of $111,791 had been made on the highway before 1926, making the total outlay for the highway $510,396.

Unclassified reimbursements, refundments, etc., on 98.4 additional miles amount to $610,317.

Trunk Highway No. 19 with 24.1 mileage in the county had a total outlay of $134,658. Maintenance in 1926 amounted to $39,225 and $95,433 was expended before 1926.

Trunk Highway No. 2 with 34.8 mileage in the county had a total outlay of $104,697 with $21,193 in maintenance and $8,471 in improvements during 1926. A total of $75,033 had been expended on this highway in the county before 1926.

Trunk Highway No. 18 with a total mileage of 22.5 in the county has a total outlay under the new plan of $76,650 with $7,447 maintenance paid in 1926 and a total of $69,203 expended before 1926.

Eighty-five counties, in which rural territory predominates, have received an average of $2.47 in trunk highway improvements for every dollar contributed by car owners in the county since the system was established, according to Commissioner C. M. Babcock.

Crow Wing county is among those which received more than was collected in the county.

Car owners in Hennepin and Ramsey counties have contributed $18,562,736 in license and gas taxes from 1921 to 1926, while $4,684,347 has been spent on trunk highways in those two counties. The other 85 counties have received $93,247,322 in improvements and have contributed $37,830,259. The total expenditures on the trunk highways to the end of 1926 were $97,931,669 and the total auto and gas taxes $56,392,995. The difference is made up by federal aid ond county reimbursement bonds. Only three rural counties have received less than they contributed and these are probably due for larger improvements in the next few years.

Whether a county has received more or less in road funds than was contributed from the county, the car owners in the county benefit because they get the use of trunk highways all over the state. A drive into adjoining counties is a regular experience with all car owners, while the majority usually take several long trips each year.

Due to the policy of doing construction work in as large projects as possible, to get low prices, the department has been unable to distribute funds evenly by counties each yer. Improvements made on some of the most heavily traveled routes, where maintenance costs have been excessive, will release these funds for use elsewhere, and it may be expected that the three rural counties which were in the minus column, and those which had a comparatively small excess of improvements over car taxes, will receive larger benefits in the next few years.

Every county also benefits more or less from the tourist trade which has grown so rapidly since Minnesota began systematic improvement of its trunk highways. H. C. Hotaling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association estimates that visitors spent $71,000,000 in Minnesota in 1926. This is an average of more than $800,000 per county. Even counties that have no lakes or summer resorts get more or less business from tourists driving through. If Mr. Hotaling's estimate is correct, tourists spent more money in Minnesota last year than the entire amount paid out by car owners in the state for license and gasoline taxes since the trunk highway system was established.

SELECTED "ALLIED CLOTHIERS"

Brainerd Contestants Give Same Name But Make Entries Later

On January 8th the Peterson Clothing Company store opened a contest for a name. The contest closed on Saturday, January 29th, and the name was selected at the convention of the N. W. Buyers & Jobbers, Inc., at the Ryan Hotel, St. Paul, Monday, February 14.

There were over 24,000 coupons entered and among them were hundreds of very good names. The judges selected ten names in the order given and the figures opposite each are the number of votes each received on the first and second ballot. The name Allied Clothiers received forty-nine and the name Unitbuyers sixteen ballots on the final vote.

Name	1st Vote	2nd Vote
Clothewell Stores	6	6
Unitbuyers Stores	25	16

Home Town Stores	2	0
Sav-Money Stores	0	0
Savemor Stores	2	6
Fairtrade Stores	2	0

The name selected is Allied Clothiers and the $1,450 Paige 6-45 sedan was awarded to Rev. David C. Holst, a Methodist minister at Pine River, Minn., whose coupon was entered at the Town Toggery at Pine River on January 13th, at 11 a. m.

The automobile, therefore, was given to the one whose coupon was the first entered according to the rules of the contest.

There were sixteen other coupons in the contest with the name Allied Clothiers on them, and they are as follows:

Mrs. R. E. Cody, Brainerd, Minn. January 15—3:30 p. m.

S. L. Conley, Cannon Falls, Minn., January 16—1 p. m.

Mrs. F. B. Prentice, Waseca, Minn., January 17—8:20 a. m.

Geo. Hanson, Kenyon, Minn., January 28—10:15 a. m.

Don S. Wolverton, Dolan, S. D., January 28—2:05 p. m.

Stewart F. Clarkson, St. Charles, Minn., January 29—8:49 p. m.

This contest has created a great deal of interest in this community, for it is a very unusual thing for a store to give away a $1,450 automobile. This was possible only because this store is a member of the N. W. Buyers & Jobbers, Inc., which is an organization of 134 retail clothing stores.

These stores are Allied Clothiers, as they buy together in large quantities, which gives them a tremendous buying power, which is reflected in the savings to their customers.

DEATH TOLL OF TORNADO IN 3 STATES NOW 32

STORM WAS OF FREAK VARIETY, STRIKING FIRST IN LOUISIANA

FIRST TOOK TWELVE LIVES IN THE PLEASANT HILL COMMUNITY

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Discovery of a body near Pleasant Hill, La., and the drowning of a man at Alexander City, Ala., today had brought the death toll of the tornado which struck three states in this vicinity, to 32.

The storm, of the freak variety, struck first in the Pleasant Hill community, taking twelve lives. Passing eastward to the state line, it struck Tenasas parish, taking a toll of eight dead. Eight were killed in Rose Hill, Miss., and the remaining dead were residents of widely separated sections.

Rains and winds, coupled with electrical demonstrations, added to the fury of the storm. At Vicksburg almost seven inches of rain fell, lightning struck the power plant and telephones were rendered useless.

Over the rest of the stricken territory trees were uprooted, houses blown down, and highways and railway tracks made impassable.

SHATTERED PARTS OF AIRPLANE TELL OF AIR TRAGEDY

Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Shattered parts of an airplane drifting ashore Barnegat inlet today were believed to tell of an air tragedy in which Lieut. Willard L. Harris and Lieut. William A. Gray, both of Langley Field, Va., lost their lives.

Army officers, searching for Pilot Harris and his passenger, held forth but one hope—that before their plane crashed into the Atlantic ocean on Thursday they had been able to leap free and land with their parachutes. Such a possibility was considered remote, however, as the night passed with no word of the missing men.

The aviators left Mitchell Field, L. I., at 2 p. m. Thursday and passed a little north of Barnegat inlet an hour later. Fog banks were then descending.

MUSSOLINI TO REPLY TO PROPOSAL OF PRES. COOLIDGE

Rome, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Premier Mussolini's reply to President Coolidge's disarmament proposals, it was understood today, would explain that Italy's navy was of modest size and her responsibilities great, and that for these reasons reduction of Italian naval strength would be impossible.

Mussolini was expected to take one or two more days to complete the final draft bfeore it would be handed to United States Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher.

Italy, the premier was expected to reply to Mr. Coolidge, must defend her trade routes and her interests throughout the world, especially since 11,000,000 Italians live outside the borders of Italy. Furthermore, Italy is dependent upon iron, coal and petroleum imported from other countries, and the avenues of import must be maintained.

DEATH TOLL OF TORNADO IN 3 STATES NOW 32

STORM WAS OF FREAK VARIETY, STRIKING FIRST IN LOUISIANA

FIRST TOOK TWELVE LIVES IN THE PLEASANT HILL COMMUNITY

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Discovery of a body near Pleasant Hill, La., and the drowning of a man at Alexander City, Ala., today had brought the death toll of the tornado which struck three states in this vicinity, to 32.

The storm, of the freak variety, struck first in the Pleasant Hill community, taking twelve lives. Passing eastward to the state line, it struck Tenasas parish, taking a toll of eight dead. Eight were killed in Rose Hill, Miss., and the remaining dead were residents of widely separated sections.

Rains and winds, coupled with electrical demonstrations, added to the fury of the storm. At Vicksburg almost seven inches of rain fell, lightning struck the power plant and telephones were rendered useless.

Over the rest of the stricken territory trees were uprooted, houses blown down, and highways and railway tracks made impassable.
